

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. An article comprising:
a protective film comprising diamond-like carbon formed on a surface, said protective film including at least an element selected from Group IV, 5 wherein a concentration of the element at a first portion of the protective film is higher than a concentration of the element at a second portion of the protective film, wherein the first portion is closer to said surface than the second portion.